

The Pulitzer Center on Crisis Reporting presents

Women – Children – Crisis

Three journalists share their stories – from Nepal, Iraq and the Democratic Republic of Congo

Tuesday, April 21, 7:00 PM - 9:00 PM

Nerinx Hall High School
530 E. Lockwood Ave.
Webster Groves, MO 63119

Meredith May, feature writer for the San Francisco Chronicle and a professor at Mills College in Oakland, reported this winter on child indentured servants in western Nepal.

Michael Kavanagh, a specialist on the Great Lakes ethnic conflicts, has made three month-long trips to eastern Congo in the past year, reporting for The World, World Focus, NPR, and Slate.

Alaa Majeed, an Iraqi journalist who worked in McClatchy's Baghdad bureau, is a winner of the 2007 Courage in Journalism Award. She was in Iraq this winter, reunited with her two sons after years apart.

Co-Sponsored by Civitas Associates. Special thanks to Nerinx Hall High School.
For Information: (314) 367-6480

www.pulitzercenter.org