

Center for Survivors of Torture and War Trauma
&
Association of Concentration Camp Survivors of Bosnia-Herzegovina

Presents

“Genocide Revisited, Healing for Tomorrow”
Surviving the Concentration Camps of the Bosnian War, Then & Now

A Two-Day International Human Rights Conference – April 9th & 10th, 2010
Maryville University in St. Louis, Missouri

Purpose:

- To educate the St. Louis community of the most recent histories of torture and other forms of ill-treatment by pushing the bounds of human rights awareness and education with a true look at genocide and torture in the concentration camps of Bosnia in the ‘90’s including the healing process, and prevention in the future.
- Understanding the history, experiences, and surviving the Bosnian War and the concentration camps as New Americans in St. Louis from Bosnian – home to over 60,000 war survivors, the largest resettlement area outside of Bosnia-Herzegovina.
- Curriculum-based (pre- and post) presentation specific to junior and senior high school students will be the focus of our first of four presentations:

Friday April 9th: 10am – 12pm “Life In Camp, Surviving Now ” – Monsanto Auditorium

An educational presentation for junior and senior high school students. Presenters are:

1. Murat Tahirovic, President of the Association of Concentration Camp from Sarajevo, Bosnia
2. Kristin Bulin, Executive Director of the Center for Survivors of Torture and War Trauma
3. 4-member panel of concentration camp survivors to share experiences and allow for questions from the audience.

FREE ADMISSION!

On-line registration required at

<http://www.stlcenterforsurvivors.org> (go to the “Conference” tab)

For more information contact Center for Survivors of Torture and War Trauma:

Contact Kristin Bulin, Executive Director

314-541-4610 or Kristin@stlcenterforsurvivors.org