

Civitas Go-Team 2023

What is a Go-Team?

Civitas Go-Team is a special program where students get a chance to explore issues in the St. Louis region.

For two weeks, we go in-depth on a selected topic by visiting important locations, meeting with politicians and community leaders, and looking at data and other resources to help us understand what's going on in our community.

Sometimes our focus is project driven, other times it's just a way to engage in something students may be curious about.

Our topic: Disparity in STL

In 2023, Civitas Go-Team will be exploring what disparity looks like in St. Louis and other parts of the US. Over the course of two weeks, we'll be examining different types of disparity such as income, housing, justice, health care, education, political, and media disparities.

Why is there so much disparity in our society? What are some of the resources STL has to overcome these forms of disparity? What can young people do to create change in the region? These are just some of the questions we hope to answer in July.

What are we doing?

This isn't school. During the two weeks of Civitas Go-Team 2023 we're going to be exploring parts of St. Louis students may not have been to before and discussing topics they may be unfamiliar with. This includes field trips, guest speakers, and visiting locations like:

- Meeting with elected leaders in St. Louis City & St. Louis County
- Visiting environmental hot spots
- Tour of Old North STL
- Looking at neighborhoods and businesses in University City, Webster Groves, South St. Louis, Downtown St. Louis, & other key regions
- Talking with activists & community leaders

Hi! We're Civitas.

Civitas is a St. Louis-based not-for-profit organization. We organize Model United Nations programs and activities that promote active citizenship and world awareness for high-school and middle-schools students attending public, private and parochial schools.

Civitas is not associated with any school, school district, religious or political organization.
